INDEX OF HUMAN DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

FOREWORD

The well-being and development of every citizen is a central concern of governments at all levels in Canada. The federal government has a wide range of programs directed toward these ends.

Because of the great diversity of these programs, because of their application over this whole country to people who may not be familiar with them, the federal government has brought together in this volume an index of its main efforts in human development.

The Index is itself interesting evidence of the varied and extensive work of the federal government, much of it done under co-operative arrangements with provinces and municipalities. I hope that it will serve not only to improve the operation of present programs, but to inform Canadians of the sources of action which are at their disposal.

Prime Minister.

Ottawa, Canada.
September 28, 1967.

CROP INSURANCE

purpose of program	To provide federal financial assistance to the provinces in order that the provinces may be able to make useful crop insurance programs available to farmers, and to re-insure portions of the provincial risks involved in such programs.
method of operation	After the province enacts crop insurance legislation suitable for its crops and climatic conditions the province enters into an agreement with the Federal Government as provided for under the Crop Insurance Act. The Federal Government, upon completion of an agreement, may reimburse the province for fifty per cent of the costs of administering the crop insurance program, and may pay up to twenty-five per cent of the total premiums necessary to make the program self-sustaining. Canada may also agree, in consideration of an actuarially sound annual re-insurance premium, paid by the province, to re-insure a major portion of the province's liability with respect to policies of insurance in force in any year.
eligibility	All provinces in Canada which have appropriate legislation and have entered into an agreement with the Federal Government. Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia have passed crop insurance legislation; and Prince Edward Island, Ontario, the three prairie provinces and British Columbia, having entered into the necessary agreements, now operate crop insurance programs.

PRAIRIE FARM ASSISTANCE

purpose of program

To assist local, provincial and municipal governments, by making direct payments to farmers who because of crop failure would probably otherwise require relief assistance from those local governments.

method of operation

Rural municipalities and local improvement districts, prior to September 15 each year, advise the Prairie Farm Assistance Administration of the estimated average yield per acre in each township. After harvest, farm to farm inspections establish actual yields. Payments are made to farmers operating land in areas, townships or part townships, where the average yield of wheat is found to be eight bushels or less per acre. Payments are made on a sliding scale depending on the extent of crop loss with the maximum payment to any farmer being $800.

eligibility

Farmers in the Prairie Provinces and the Peace River District of British Columbia.

TRANSITIONAL ASSISTANCE BENEFIT PLAN

purpose of program

To provide interim income above Unemployment Insurance Benefits for workers in motor vehicles and parts industries, laid off as a result of the Canada-U.S. Automotive Agreement of June 1965.

method of operation

This program is complementary to the assistance program of loans for automotive parts firms in meeting adjustments made necessary by the Agreement. Assistance benefits are provided, ranging from 62% to 75% of a worker's weekly pay. The actual amount paid will:

- (1) be governed by the number of his dependents;
 - (2) be not more than 65% of the industries average weekly wages and salaries.

eligibility

Any worker in the automotive or parts industries with at least 30 weeks employment in the last 52 weeks in these industries prior to layoff, and who is qualified to receive unemployment insurance benefits.

The adjustment Assistance Board, set up by the government to deal with transitional problems of workers and manufacturers, must find that a significant proportion of workers in a firm or plant will be laid off for at least 30 days; and that this layoff was the result of the termination, or decrease of, production or activity arising from the Canada-U.S. Automotive Agreement.

ADULT OCCUPATIONAL TRAINING

method of operation The Federal Government pays all of the actual costs incurred by provincial or municipal authorities in providing occupational training to eligible adults under this program. Payments can also be made to other agencies operating occupational training courses, if the province approves.

 The Federal Government also provides a training allowance for adults enrolled under the program, varying with family circumstances and living costs.

 In addition, an employer can be paid up to 100 per cent of his costs of providing formal "class-room" training of a general transferable nature, including wages paid to employees while they attend such classes on company time.

eligibility For cost of providing training: — Payments are made to any province for the actual costs any provincial or municipal authorities incur in providing occupational training to adults enrolled under the program.

 For training: — Any adult who has not attended school on a regular basis for at least 12 months, who, in the judgment of the appropriate officer of the Department of Manpower and Immigration, will have his earning capacity or opportunities for employment increased by occupational training.

 For training allowance: — Any adult who

 (i) has been a member of the labour force substantially without interruption for not less than 3 years, or

 (ii) has one or more dependents.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR VOCATIONAL TRAINEES

purpose of program	To give financial assistance to any N.W.T. resident who is in need of, and qualifies for, any level of vocational and technical education. To encourage people to become more fully qualified for employment or to up-grade people presently employed.
method of operation	A sliding scale of payments for trainees is paid by the Northern Administration Branch of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development to residents of the N.W.T. who are enrolled in a vocational or technical education course. The program also provides for payment of transportation costs to and from school, and covers tuition fees, books, and an allowance for clothing. The Department shares these costs with the Government of the Northwest Territories.
eligibility	All residents of the N.W.T. who meet the entrance requirements of the course desired.

CANADA ASSISTANCE PLAN

method of operation	The federal government contributes to the cost of assisting persons in need through provincial and municipal assistance programs. The exact form of the programs and their administration rests with the provinces and their municipalities. Programs can thus be designed by each province to meet its particular circumstances. Rates of assistance are set by the provinces or their municipalities. No upper limit is placed on federal sharing, the objective being to ensure that the needs of the individual and the family will be adequately met.
eligibility	Assistance is available to persons who are in need because of inability to obtain employment, loss of the principal family provider, illness, disability or age. Aged, blind or disabled persons who have been receiving categorical allowances under the federal-provincial shared-cost programs may be transferred to the new program only if they will receive at least a comparable level of help under it. Assistance is granted on the basis of an individual's or family's budgetary requirements, as well as the income available to them. The Plan provides federal sharing for the first time in the cost of providing health care services to assistance recipients. Federal sharing now also covers new expenditures for improving and extending welfare services, including provincial and municipal costs of administration.

UNEMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE

purpose of program

To provide assistance to individuals and their dependents who are unemployed and in need.

method of operation

This is a federal-provincial shared-cost program. Unemployment Assistance is administered through provincial and municipal assistance programs. The Federal Government may enter into an agreement with any province to reimburse it for 50 per cent of general assistance expenditures made by the province and its municipalities to persons and their dependents who are unemployed and in need. All provinces and the two Territories have signed agreements under the Act.

eligibility

In general, assistance is granted on a needs test basis; the conditions of eligibility and rates of assistance are determined by the provinces. Payments to both employable and unemployable persons are shared; the latter group includes persons with varying degrees of disability and their dependents, and those in homes for special care such as homes for the aged and nursing homes.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

purpose of program	To provide financial assistance to needy persons between the ages of 65 and 68.
method of operation	This is a federal-provincial shared-cost program. The province administers the program and determines the amount of assistance payable. The Federal Government reimburses the provinces for 50% of the assistance paid, up to a maximum of $75 per month. eligibility	Ten years residence in Canada. An applicant's income as well as his assets computed as income, are taken into consideration in determining eligibility. For a single person the total income allowed, including assistance, may not exceed $1,260 a year. For a married couple the income ceiling is $2,220 a year or when the spouse is blind within the meaning of the Blind Persons Act, $2,580 a year. Assistance is not paid to those receiving Old Age Security or allowances under the Blind Persons Act, the Disabled Persons Act, or the War Veterans Allowance Act. Recipients of Old Age Assistance are automatically transferred to Old Age Security when they reach the eligible age for that pension. Since Old Age Assistance is payable only to the age at which a person becomes eligible for Old Age Security, Old Age Assistance payments will disappear when the Old Age Security minimum age requirement becomes 65 years. This will be in 1970

BLIND PERSONS ALLOWANCES

purpose of program

To provide allowances for blind persons.

method of operation

This is a federal-provincial shared-cost program. The province administers the program and determines the amount of allowance payable. The federal contribution is 75 percent of the allowance paid up to a maximum of $75 a month.

eligibility

Persons at least 18 years old who meet the required definition of blindness and have resided in Canada for ten years immediately preceding the commencement of the allowance.

An applicant's income as well as his assets computed as income are taken into consideration in determining eligibility. For an unmarried person, total income including the allowance may not exceed $1,500 a year; for a person with no spouse with one or more dependent children, $1,980; for a married couple, $2,580. When the spouse is also blind, income of the couple may not exceed $2,700.

Allowances are not payable to persons receiving assistance under the Old Age Assistance Act, an allowance under the Disabled Persons Act or the War Veterans Allowance Act, a pension under the Old Age Security Act, or a pension for blindness under the Pensions Act.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES

purpose of program

To provide a monthly allowance for children.

method of operation

Family Allowances rates are $6 a month for a child under 10 years of age and $8 a month for a child aged 10 to 15.

eligibility

The allowances do not involve a means test, and do not constitute taxable income. But there is a smaller income tax exemption for children eligible for allowances.

Every child under the age of 16 years who was born in Canada; or has been a resident of the country for one year; or whose father or mother was domiciled in Canada at the child's birth and for three years before that and up to the date of registration.

For children of school age, the allowances are paid only to those who regularly attend school as required by provincial legislation. The allowance ceases to be payable if the child is no longer a resident of Canada, is not being maintained by a parent, is not attending school, dies or, if a female child marries.

CANADA PENSION PLAN

purpose of program

To provide for most members of the labour force a contributory social insurance system whereby each contributor builds up a right to a graduated retirement pension, the amount of which is related to his previous earnings pattern. The Plan also provides disability pensions and benefits for the dependent children of a disabled contributor, as well as survivors' benefits, including widows' pensions, orphans' benefits, disabled widowers' pensions and death benefits.

method of operation

The Canada Pension Plan, and its counterpart in the Province of Quebec, are financed by contributions from employees, employers and self-employed persons. The first $600 of each person's annual earnings is exempt from contributions. On earnings above that amount and below the present maximum of $5000, employees and employers each contribute 1.8 per cent. Self-employed persons pay the combined rate of 3.6 per cent on their annual earnings between $600 and $5000, provided the total of such earnings is $800 or more. Retirement pensions are 25 per cent of the contributor's average contributory earnings up to the maximum of $5000, at present, and including the $600 that has been exempted from contributions. Earnings limits for contribution and benefit purposes will be adjusted in accordance with changing economic conditions.

eligibility

The Plan covers almost all employees aged 18 to 70 who earn more than $600 a year and self-employed people in the same age group who earn at least $800 a year. During the first few years of the Plan, the age at which contributors can apply for their retirement pensions will be reduced from 68 to 65. In 1967 eligible persons, aged 68 and over, will be able to claim the Canada Pension Plan retirement pension; in 1968 this age will be lowered to 67 and so on down to 65 in 1970. Survivors' benefits become available commencing in February, 1968; disability pensions in May, 1970.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS

purpose of program

To provide under a federal-provincial partnership arrangement, for the acquisition or construction and operation of Public Housing Projects. This program is designed to encourage the construction of low rental, publicly-owned, housing in Canada.

method of operation

The Federal Government contributes 75% of the capital cost of acquisition or construction and absorbs 75% of any operating losses. The rental housing projects are jointly owned by the Federal Government and the province and municipal governments, if a municipal government is involved in the project. This is primarily a federal-provincial program which is available to all provinces in Canada. CMHC is actively involved in the design and construction of the program. Local Housing Authorities are established to operate the housing projects under the supervision of both the federal and provincial governments.

eligibility

Provinces wishing to undertake public housing projects may enter into an agreement for this purpose with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Normally the Municipalities initiate the requests for public housing which are submitted to the Provinces, for their recommendation.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL LAND ASSEMBLY PROJECTS

purpose of program	To assemble raw land for residential development in areas where the lack of serviced land is hampering housing growth. Land so acquired offers fully serviced lots in planned sub-divisions.
method of operation	The program operates under a joint Federal-Provincial agreement. Up to 75% of the cost is borne by the Federal Government and the remainder by the provincial partner. The investment is normally recovered from the sale of the lots and block lands, but under certain circumstances with the approval of the Partnership, may only partially be recovered. Municipal servicing costs normally borne in a general tax rate are repaid to the senior governments by the municipality. Land is sold for all cash or part cash with the remainder recovered by payment of improvement taxes over a period of 15 years.
eligibility	Initiative for undertaking Federal-Provincial Land Assembly Projects rests with individual municipalities. Municipal applications for the development of projects are required to be submitted to the Province for review and recommendation to CMHC.

CAPITAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM FOR SCHOOLS AND EQUIPMENT

purpose of program

To provide capital assistance for schools and equipment required for occupational training programs.

method of operation

There is a federal-provincial shared-cost program with a limit on federal contributions equal to $800 times the number of persons in the age group 15-19 inclusive in the province in 1961. The Federal Government pays 75 per cent of the costs the provinces have incurred since 1961 in providing facilities for technical and vocational training, up to an agreed amount, and 50 per cent thereafter, up to the limit of $800 times the youth population defined above. In addition, the provinces may borrow from the Federal Government in order to purchase or construct occupational training facilities that will be used to provide training to adults in occupational training courses.

eligibility

For shared cost: — Assistance is available to any province which signs an agreement towards the cost of capital expenditures incurred by the province in building or buying technical and vocational training facilities, but not including the purchase price of the site.

For loans: — To any province in which there is a need for adult occupational training facilities.

CHILDREN OF WAR DEAD (EDUCATION ASSISTANCE ACT)

purpose of program

To provide for the payment of allowances and tuition fees for pensioned children of deceased members or former members of the Armed Forces, to enable them to continue their education beyond secondary school graduation or equivalent level.

method of operation

This is a decentralized program with service being provided through 18 district offices.

The field staff is responsible for counselling, the initiation of applications, the payment of allowances, the adjudication of specific situations after assistance has been approved and the follow-up after the discontinuation of assistance.

The responsibilities of the headquarters staff include the development of policy proposals, the establishment of methods and procedures, the adjudication of all questions related to the administration of the Act and the review of district office adjudications.

eligibility

A child must be, or have been, in receipt or eligible for, except for age or marriage, of a pension under the Pension Act or Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act Parts I to X because of the death of the parent.

Education or training must be on a post-secondary level.

BENEVOLENT AND TRUST FUNDS

purpose of program

To provide counselling and assistance to veterans to help them in resolving financial problems, and in applying for benefits through the Army Benevolent Fund, the Navy Benevolent Fund, the RCAF Benevolent Fund and a number of trust funds.

To provide cash grants or loans for an emergency or a grant for the cost of training of a veteran or dependent when other government programs are not available.

(DVA does not administer the three Services benevolent funds.)

method of operation

Field staff in district offices determine the nature of the distress and recommend solutions, including financial assistance. In some cases awards of under $50 may be made by field staff. Headquarters staff are responsible for policy, administration etc. They make any awards over $50 and co-ordinate any assistance to veterans, from outside the Department.

eligibility

A service man or woman and their dependents.

For benefits under the Army Benevolent Fund, active service during World War II.

information address

For benefits under the Navy and Airforce Benevolent Funds, any war service with the Navy or Airforce qualifies a veteran for benefits.

There are additional conditions of eligibility depending upon the specific trust fund concerned.

CANADA STUDENT LOAN PLAN

purpose of program

To make available to students who need financial help for full-time study above the high school level guarantees for loans obtained from banks and certain credit unions.

method of operation

A student applies for a Certificate of Eligibility from the province or Territory in which he resides. If such a Certificate is issued, the student applies for a loan from any bank branch or designated credit union.

When the loan is made, a record is sent to the Dept. of Finance which guarantees the repayment of the loan and pays interest on it until six months after the student graduates or discontinues his studies. From that point the student is required to repay the loan, and interest, over a period of 5 to 10 years after graduation.

eligibility

Certificates of Eligibility may be issued only if the applicant is a full-time student during an academic year of not less than six months, and can establish that the financial resources available to him, including those of his parents, are not enough to meet what are felt to be reasonable costs for the academic year.

FOOD AND DRUG CONTROL

purpose of program

To maintain the safety, purity and quality of food and drug products and to prevent misrepresentation in labelling and advertising.

method of operation

In the Food and Drugs Act there are prohibitions on the sale of food or drugs that do not meet prescribed standards, are harmful, adulterated, dirty, improperly stored or manufactured under unsanitary conditions. The Act prohibits the advertising of food, drug, cosmetic or medical device as preventative or cure for a number of serious diseases and lists drugs that may be sold by prescription only. Regulations were amended in 1964 to include listing of chemical additives that may be used in foods, permissible amounts and the underlying reason. Drug standards and regulations were upgraded in 1963 and in 1965 an Adverse Drug Reaction Reporting Program was instituted. Regulation of supply and use of drugs under the Narcotic Control Act is also administered under the Food and Drug Directorate.

method of operation	The federal government contributes to the cost of assisting persons in need through provincial and municipal assistance programs. The exact form of the programs and their administration rests with the provinces and their municipalities. Programs can thus be designed by each province to meet its particular circumstances. Rates of assistance are set by the provinces or their municipalities. No upper limit is placed on federal sharing, the objective being to ensure that the needs of the individual and the family will be adequately met.
eligibility	Assistance is available to persons who are in need because of inability to obtain employment, loss of the principal family provider, illness, disability or age. Aged, blind or disabled persons who have been receiving categorical allowances under the federal-provincial shared-cost programs may be transferred to the new program only if they will receive at least a comparable level of help under it. Assistance is granted on the basis of an individual's or family's budgetary requirements, as well as the income available to them. The Plan provides federal sharing for the first time in the cost of providing health care services to assistance recipients. Federal sharing now also covers new expenditures for improving and extending welfare services, including provincial and municipal costs of administration.

purpose of program

To rehabilitate and to re-establish in effective employment rural people who are in need of assistance. This part of the ARDA Agreement applies to families and individual members of families affected by Land Use and Farm Adjustment programs or who live in Rural Development Areas or Special Rural Development Areas.

The intent is to harness applicable Manpower programs to help in the rehabilitation of rural people and to provide supplementary assistance to meet special needs.

method of operation

This is a Federal-Provincial shared-cost program established under the Rural Development Agreement, effective April 1, 1965. Approved projects shall be selected from the following categories:

- (1) training allowances for any person qualifying for rehabilitation and re-establishment
- (2) moving allowances for qualified persons, and their effects to a new location where arrangements for employment, resettlement or relocation have been made
- (3) the re-establishment of such persons and related adaptive services
- (4) special assistance where necessary for people aged 55 years and over, who are not qualified for training and re-establishment, and who are affected by the Land Use and Farm Adjustment Part of this Agreement
- (5) Re-establishment grants to cover the cost of moving and of counselling services.

eligibility

CENTRALIZATION OF FISHING POPULATION AND INDUSTRY (NEWFOUND- LAND)

purpose of program

To help integrate people living in isolated fishing communities into the newly emerging industrial structure of the fishing industry, and so enable fishermen to increase their earnings by contributing more effectively to the development of the Canadian commercial fisheries.

method of operation

This is a federal-provincial shared-cost program administered by the Government of Newfoundland.

Families living in isolated communities where normal community facilities are not available, may be relocated in designated growth centres. Relocation grants of up to $2,500 for a family of five may be obtained by families in growth centres. Seventy-five per cent of the cost of these grants is provided by the Federal Government. Grants are made available to all householders in communities in which eighty per cent of the householders petition for relocation, or to individuals engaged in the fisheries and their families, if job opportunities exist in the fishing communities to which they wish to move.

eligibility

Petitions from any fishing community in Newfoundland in which eighty per cent of the householders request a relocation program are considered by a federal-provincial committee.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL TREATMENT

purpose of program

To provide unsponsored immigrants with emergency hospital, medical or dental care — from the time they arrive until they have been placed in employment and are self-supporting.

method of operation

Manpower officers in all Canada Manpower Centres, are responsible for authorizing emergency medical treatment. Where there is a local medical officer of the Department of National Health and Welfare or of the Department of Veterans Affairs, requests for emergency medical treatment are authorized by him. If extensive medical treatment is necessary, but is not urgent (e.g. artificial limbs, dentures etc.), this may be provided.

eligibility

Unsponsored immigrants, who are ineligible for public welfare assistance or provincial hospitalization programs. Immigrants who have lost their jobs through no fault of their own, during their first year in Canada. Only when sponsorship has broken down will this assistance be granted to a sponsored immigrant.

EMERGENCY TRANSPORTATION ASSISTANCE

purpose of program

To ensure that immigrants and settlers are placed in gainful employment as quickly as possible following arrival, by advancing them funds for transportation to place of employment.

method of operation

Regional Directors (Immigration) and Immigration Officers in Charge of ports of entry are authorized to grant emergency transportation assistance to cover transportation from port of arrival to initial destination. Manpower officers may grant such assistance to cover transportation from initial destination to locale of employment.

If an immigrant or settler finds employment at his destination, or has enough money to meet his requirements for a seven-day period following his arrival there, he may be required to pay a portion of the cost of transportation.

eligibility

Un-sponsored immigrants without sufficient funds to reach their initial destination or an area where employment possibilities exist. Only when sponsorship has broken down and the sponsor is unable to meet his obligations, will this assistance be provided to a sponsored immigrant.

EMERGENCY WELFARE ASSISTANCE

purpose of program

To provide immigrants and settlers in need with essential items of livelihood and some sense of security until they can find employment or until they become eligible for welfare benefits under provincial laws.

method of operation

Manpower officers in all Canada Manpower Centres, are responsible for determining the need and eligibility of immigrants for welfare assistance, and for providing eligible immigrants with assistance comparable to that offered to Canadian residents in similar circumstances. Officials in Manpower Centres may have indigent immigrants referred to them by municipal officials. When an immigrant becomes eligible for provincial welfare schemes he is referred to the appropriate authorities.

eligibility

Un-sponsored immigrants who are ineligible for provincial or federal assistance and who are without adequate means to maintain themselves until they have been placed in employment. Only when sponsorship has broken down will consideration be given to grant assistance to a sponsored immigrant.

MANPOWER MOBILITY PROGRAM

purpose of program

To provide financial assistance to workers who are, or who have received notice that they are about to become, unemployed, and for whom there is little or no prospect of suitable employment locally, and who therefore find it necessary to move to other areas of greater opportunity.

method of operation

Grants are provided:

- a) to individual workers to move temporarily to explore employment possibilities and to assess working and living conditions (Exploratory Grant);
- b) to individuals to move temporarily to attend approved training under the Adult Occupational Training Act (Trainee Travel Grant);
- c) to workers to move themselves, their dependents and household effects, when they have obtained continuing full-time employment in localities other than those in which they reside (Relocation Grant).

In addition, a worker who has received an exploratory grant can get an allowance to support his dependents while he is looking for work; and a worker who has had to sell his house or buy a new one can get a $500 bonus, if he has been a resident of Canada for 12 months.

eligibility

Any resident of Canada who meets conditions relating to unemployment or occupational training. Also workers affected by certain Federal Government programs.

Decisions as to eligibility, within the framework of the manpower mobility regulations, are made by manpower officers at the Canada Manpower Centres throughout Canada.

method of operation The Federal Government pays all of the actual costs incurred by provincial or municipal authorities in providing occupational training to eligible adults under this program. Payments can also be made to other agencies operating occupational training courses, if the province approves.
The Federal Government also provides a training allowance for adults enrolled under the program, varying with family circumstances and living costs.
In addition, an employer can be paid up to 100 per cent of his costs of providing formal "class-room" training of a general transferable nature, including wages paid to employees while they attend such classes on company time.

eligibility For cost of providing training: — Payments are made to any province for the actual costs any provincial or municipal authorities incur in providing occupational training to adults enrolled under the program.
For training: — Any adult who has not attended school on a regular basis for at least 12 months, who, in the judgment of the appropriate officer of the Department of Manpower and Immigration, will have his earning capacity or opportunities for employment increased by occupational training.
For training allowance: — Any adult who
(i) has been a member of the labour force substantially without interruption for not less than 3 years, or
(ii) has one or more dependents.

OLDER WORKERS

purpose of program

To stimulate and encourage greater use of older members of the Labour Force.

method of operation

Through its section on Older Workers, the Civilian Rehabilitation Branch of the Department of Manpower and Immigration co-ordinates activities on behalf of older workers at the national level. It carries out a continuing educational and publicity program by assembling and distributing technical and informational material related directly or indirectly to older workers. It develops and maintains liaison with Regional Manpower Offices, provincial officials, voluntary agencies, educational institutions, industry and organized labour. The approach has been to demonstrate the value to employers of using older workers and to suggest ways and means of making their use more effective and profitable to the employer and the economy. This includes the interpretation and use of studies and research projects.

eligibility

This program is aimed largely at employers, trade unions, voluntary agencies, and educational institutions etc., which may directly or indirectly influence the hiring of older workers.

CANADA NEWSTART PROGRAM

purpose of program

To develop research and experiments on methods and programs which can be implemented on a widespread basis to prepare disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed adults for stable and rewarding employment.

method of operation

The Federal Government, jointly with the Provincial Government, will establish one pilot training project in each Province to conduct action-research programs (subject to the agreement of each province). The projects will be incorporated and bear the name of the Province, e.g. "Alberta NewStart Incorporated".

The Company will be controlled by a Board of Directors, selected jointly by the Minister and the Province. The Chairman of the Board of Directors will be the Executive Director, a full time employee of the Company. A full time staff of approximately twenty-five is envisaged.

When the Corporation has been formed, the Department will make an initial grant of $100,000 to enable the corporation to plan its first year's operation and budget. The corporation will produce a plan of operation and a budget annually. Upon joint approval of the plan by the Minister and the Province, and the approval of the budget by the Minister, the Department will fully finance the budget.

The Corporation will confine its operations to a defined area, which will usually have a maximum population of 25,000.

To provide support to the various corporations, a Technical Support Centre has been established in the Pilot Projects Branch. The Centre is developing methods to:

- a) assist in the development of approaches, methods and materials for the organization and conduct of action-research programs by the NewStart corporations.
- b) collate and evaluate the total experience of the action-research programs of the NewStart corporations.

eligibility

Each corporation is expected to study its area, define the problem, and identify the needs for motivating, training, job-placement and transfer.

SELECTION AND PLACEMENT SERVICE

purpose of program

To provide counselling, selection and placement services in the N.W.T. comparable to the services offered by the Department of Manpower in other parts of Canada. The program provides for the counselling of residents who apply for training and/or employment, the selection of residents for training courses and the employment placement of residents.

method of operation

The Northern Administration Branch of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development operates a field selection placement and counselling program in various localities in the N.W.T. All residents of the N.W.T. are offered counselling services and assisted in finding jobs or entering specific training programs such as apprenticeship or vocational and technical training. This is a federal program in which the total cost is borne by the department. Labour force and job opportunity surveys are conducted by the Selection and Placement officers of the Branch. Since this is a parallel service to the manpower program, there is a continuous exchange of information between manpower services and the Selection and Placement services in the N.W.T.

SPECIAL TRAINING - SPECIAL COURSES

purpose of program

To develop and offer training courses for young people and adults in the N.W.T. outside the regular school programs. To meet specific needs related to employment opportunities such as training in fur garment manufacture and guide training.

method of operation

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development hires specialists on contract to carry out training courses at the community level in the N.W.T. These courses are designed to meet specific needs and are therefore not operated on a continuing basis. The Department shares the cost of training programs with the Government of the N.W.T. The courses offered are primarily designed to provide basic skills so that the trainee can move directly into employment in an industry or a group of trainees can form a co-operative.

APPRENTICE TRAINING AND OCCUPATIONAL CERTIFICATION

--- purpose of program

To provide a fully operative Apprentice Training and Occupational Certification Program to train and/or qualify, by certificate, residents of the N.W.T. This program is designed to improve the occupational standards of the N.W.T. residents so that they may find employment as skilled workers.

--- method of operation

Apprentice Training

Under the Apprentice Training Program of the Government of the Northwest Territories all residents are able to apply to become an apprentice in any one of a large number of skilled occupations. If the applicant has no experience, he must serve the full term of apprenticeship for the occupation chosen. If the applicant has had proven training and/or experience in the occupation, an examining board will recommend an amount of credit and the applicant will write a qualifying examination at that level. On successful completion of the apprenticeship, the apprentice is eligible for a Completion Apprenticeship certificate (with interprovincial seal if an interprovincial examination is written) and a journeyman's certificate. These certificates are recognized in all provinces.

Occupational Certification

Persons with varied amounts of occupational experience in an occupation may apply for certification as a journeyman, or in a lesser capacity by having the experience evaluated by an examining board and writing a theory examination at the appropriate level. Those successful at the journeyman's level are granted journeyman's certificates; those achieving a lesser level are eligible to transfer to the apprentice training program or attempt to reach journeyman level by other suitable means.

Financial assistance for theory training is granted under the financial assistance program.

--- eligibility

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR VOCATIONAL TRAINEES

purpose of program

To give financial assistance to any N.W.T. resident who is in need of, and qualifies for, any level of vocational and technical education. To encourage people to become more fully qualified for employment or to up-grade people presently employed.

method of operation

A sliding scale of payments for trainees is paid by the Northern Administration Branch of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development to residents of the N.W.T. who are enrolled in a vocational or technical education course. The program also provides for payment of transportation costs to and from school, and covers tuition fees, books, and an allowance for clothing. The Department shares these costs with the Government of the Northwest Territories.

TRAINING IN CO-OPERATION WITH INDUSTRY

purpose of program	To provide for the training of residents of the N.W.T. in occupations in specific industries which have entered into an agreement with the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. This program is designed to help the industries operating in the N.W.T. to recruit and train skilled employees in specific occupations.
method of operation	Under this program the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development may enter into an agreement with an employer under which they may subsidize the wages of an N.W.T. resident for a period of one year up to a maximum of 50 per cent, provided the training is of a standard acceptable to the Department. In addition, the Department may financially assist a company under such an agreement in the provision of special equipment and/or instructors. The Department shares the costs with the Government of the N.W.T.

LANGUAGE INSTRUCTION

purpose of program

To provide an opportunity for every adult immigrant to receive instruction in the official languages of Canada and to encourage every adult immigrant to take advantage of such opportunity for learning the language of his community.

method of operation

Language instruction programs are administered by the provincial education authorities through local school boards. Provinces provide grants to school boards for teacher salaries. The Citizenship Branch has agreements with all the provinces except Quebec whereby it undertakes to pay 50% of any amount paid by the provinces towards the teaching costs of immigrant classes. Agreements with the provinces provide for the reimbursement of purchases of textbooks used in the language instruction program up to the average of such expenditures over a five-year period. Quebec and British Columbia, are not parties to the textbook agreement at present. The Branch also enlists the co-operation of voluntary agencies in providing special classes for housewives and others who are unable to attend the regular evening classes.

eligibility

MULTI-ETHNIC PROGRAM

purpose of program

To guarantee the full participation of all ethnic communities in all phases of the life of the nation and to prevent the permanent isolation of any particular ethnic group or segment thereof.

method of operation

Branch officers encourage the development of public attitudes sympathetic to ethnic questions. Publications, films, seminars and conferences are used in achieving this goal.

This program has elements of consultation, direct service, financial support and action research. It is directed primarily at community groups and national organizations; program resources are also used by provincial and municipal governments. The program is administered in Ottawa but has strong regional field support, maintaining liaison with ethnic groups and multi-ethnic communities.

FITNESS AND AMATEUR SPORT

purpose of program	To raise and maintain level of fitness of Canadians through participation in sports and active recreational pursuits.
method of operation	The program provides assistance for the promotion and development of Canadian participation in national and international amateur sport; provides for the training of coaches; provides bursaries, scholarships and fellowships and supports research in fields related to fitness and amateur sport; prepares and distributes information relating to fitness and sport; co-ordinates federal activities relating to fitness and amateur sport; undertakes special projects including the provision of services and facilities or the provision of assistance therefore.
eligibility	Federal financial aid is provided through direct grants to national sports governing bodies and national associations; to universities for research; to persons with outstanding qualifications for graduate or post-graduate study. Aid is also provided for local and provincial activities through federal-provincial agreements.

AREA DEVELOPMENT INCENTIVE PROGRAM

purpose of program	To increase employment and income through the establishment and expansion of secondary industries in "designated areas". Areas designated under this program are characterized by high levels of chronic unemployment or under-employment and a slow rate of economic growth.
method of operation	Over 80 "designated areas" based on Canada Manpower Centre areas or their contiguous census divisions have been identified. Manufacturing industries in these areas, or firms planning to establish there, may be eligible for development grants and accelerated capital cost allowances. The development grants are calculated according to formulae, with a maximum grant to 5 million dollars for any eligible facility. The grants are exempt from federal income tax and do not reduce the capital cost which may be used for income tax allowance purposes. Those persons or firms eligible for development grants may also receive accelerated capital cost allowances on the eligible facilities. Commitment authority for grants under the Program has been provided to a level of $200 million.
eligibility	Any person or firm establishing a new manufacturing or processing facility, or undertaking a significant expansion of an existing facility in a designated area may be eligible for a development grant. An important condition of the grant is that 95%, by value, of the machinery and equipment installed in the new or expanded facility must be new. A significant increase in employment resulting from the investment in an expansion to an existing facility is also a required condition.

ATLANTIC DEVELOPMENT BOARD

purpose of program

The ADB has three major functions relating to the fostering of economic growth in the Atlantic region:

- (1) To recommend to the Federal Government programs and projects which will contribute to the development of the region
 - (2) To prepare, in consultation with the Economic Council of Canada, an overall development plan for the region
 - (3) To consult and co-operate with governmental departments, agencies and private organizations having aims related to those of the Board; and, where necessary, co-ordinate the activities of such departments, agencies and private organizations.

method of operation

The ADB engages in close consultation with provincial officials, interested federal agencies and private organizations in the preparation of the overall co-ordinated plan for economic growth in the region.

Largely through the sponsoring of feasibility studies and through assistance in financing projects, the Board identifies and fills gaps in development plans for the region.

eligibility

Projects on which the provinces have been consulted and for which satisfactory financing arrangements are not otherwise available, may be financed in whole or in part by the Board.

AGRICULTURAL PRICE STABILIZATION

purpose of program To stabilize the prices of certain agricultural products with the objective of providing producers with a fair return from the sale of agricultural commodities.

method of operation Under the legislation the Agricultural Stabilization Board is required to maintain a floor price for nine named commodities. The Board may also support the prices of other commodities subject to the approval of the Governor in Council. The Board can support the price of agricultural commodities by one of three methods; namely, buying the product, making deficiency payments to the farmer or making cash payments to or for the benefit of farmers. The method of stabilization of prices is selected by the Board in the light of current market conditions for the particular commodity.

eligibility Producers of the commodities under support at the particular time. The only commodities which may not be supported at any time by the legislation are the western grains covered by the Canada Wheat Board Act; namely, wheat, oats and barley.

ASSISTANCE TO CHEESE FACTORIES

purpose of program

To improve the quality of cheese which is produced for domestic and export markets.

method of operation

The Federal Government provides direct payments to cheese factory owners in all provinces in Canada. Upon the approval of plans which are designed to improve the cheese ripening facilities of cheese factories, the federal government will provide funds of up to 50% of the total cost of improvements. Each such grant is subject to approval by the Federal Government.

eligibility

Cheese factory owners must make application for financial assistance to the Federal Government and such assistance is granted subject to approval in each instance.

PRAIRIE FARM ASSISTANCE

purpose of program

To assist local, provincial and municipal governments, by making direct payments to farmers who because of crop failure would probably otherwise require relief assistance from those local governments.

method of operation

Rural municipalities and local improvement districts, prior to September 15 each year, advise the Prairie Farm Assistance Administration of the estimated average yield per acre in each township. After harvest, farm to farm inspections establish actual yields. Payments are made to farmers operating land in areas, townships or part townships, where the average yield of wheat is found to be eight bushels or less per acre. Payments are made on a sliding scale depending on the extent of crop loss with the maximum payment to any farmer being $800.

eligibility

Farmers in the Prairie Provinces and the Peace River District of British Columbia.

PRAIRIE FARM REHABILITATION

purpose of program

To effect better land utilization, for the development of available water resources and for more efficient use of water, all designed to provide stability to the prairie agriculture industry.

method of operation

Under this Act the Federal Government can make grants to individual farmers for dugouts, stockwatering dams and small irrigation projects. Community water storage projects are constructed by agreement with the province or local government, the Federal Government bearing the cost of construction and the local government providing the land right-of-way. Major irrigation and water development projects are constructed under special agreement with the province on a cost-sharing arrangement.

Community Pastures may be developed in Manitoba and Saskatchewan according to existing agreements. The province provides suitable land and PFRA pays the capital cost of developing the pasture.

A tree nursery distributes tree seedlings to farmers at no cost.

TECHNICAL ADVISORY SERVICE

purpose of program

To increase production efficiency and quality of farm products and hence the income of farmers in Canada by providing information and advice on recent developments in production techniques and solutions to local problems such as soil fertility and pest control.

method of operation

The Federal Government maintains research stations and experimental farms across Canada. At these stations or farms, research of a general application to agriculture is carried out as well as research into the problems facing farmers in the local areas. Farmers can obtain advice and information directly from these federal establishments. Close working relationships are maintained between federal research establishments and provincial agricultural extension services in order to ensure that the latest developments in agricultural technology are available to farmers in all parts of Canada.

CENTRALIZATION OF FISHING POPULATION AND INDUSTRY (NEWFOUND- LAND)

purpose of program

To help integrate people living in isolated fishing communities into the newly emerging industrial structure of the fishing industry, and so enable fishermen to increase their earnings by contributing more effectively to the development of the Canadian commercial fisheries.

method of operation

This is a federal-provincial shared-cost program administered by the Government of Newfoundland.

Families living in isolated communities where normal community facilities are not available, may be relocated in designated growth centres. Relocation grants of up to $2,500 for a family of five may be obtained by families in growth centres. Seventy-five per cent of the cost of these grants is provided by the Federal Government. Grants are made available to all householders in communities in which eighty per cent of the householders petition for relocation, or to individuals engaged in the fisheries and their families, if job opportunities exist in the fishing communities to which they wish to move.

eligibility

Petitions from any fishing community in Newfoundland in which eighty per cent of the householders request a relocation program are considered by a federal-provincial committee.

COMMUNITY FISH PROCESSING FACILITIES

purpose of program

To provide central fish processing and holding facilities for use by fishermen in small fishing communities to enable them to improve the quality of their product through approved handling techniques.

method of operation

Fishing co-operatives or other groups of fishermen living in small communities apply to the provincial government department responsible for fisheries administration, requesting the provision of community fish processing facilities for the salting or pickling of fish and/or for holding fresh fish prior to collection by large central freezing plants. Following a federal-provincial agreement on the need for such a facility, the Federal Department of Fisheries finances the construction of suitable facilities which are erected under contract and under supervision of the Federal Department of Public Works on land provided by the Province. The Province is responsible for overseeing the orderly operation of the facilities and assuring that normal maintenance is carried out.

BOAT BUILDING

purpose of program

To enable local population to acquire skills related to living in a costal area. As skills are acquired it is expected that people living within the forest belt may, in time, be able to supply those living outside the forest belt with marine transport which in turn would mean a small industry and a source of income.

method of operation

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development provides financial and technical assistance on a program of boat building and repair to selected residents of the Northwest Territories. It is expected that when training is completed some graduates of the program will establish small building and repair facilities in the Territories while others may utilize acquired skills in shipyards outside the Territories.

purpose of program	To increase employment and income through the establishment and expansion of secondary industries in "designated areas". Areas designated under this program are characterized by high levels of chronic unemployment or under-employment and a slow rate of economic growth.
method of operation	Over 80 "designated areas" based on Canada Manpower Centre areas or their contiguous census divisions have been identified. Manufacturing industries in these areas, or firms planning to establish there, may be eligible for development grants and accelerated capital cost allowances. The development grants are calculated according to formulae, with a maximum grant to 5 million dollars for any eligible facility. The grants are exempt from federal income tax and do not reduce the capital cost which may be used for income tax allowance purposes. Those persons or firms eligible for development grants may also receive accelerated capital cost allowances on the eligible facilities. Commitment authority for grants under the Program has been provided to a level of $200 million.
eligibility	Any person or firm establishing a new manufacturing or processing facility, or undertaking a significant expansion of an existing facility in a designated area may be eligible for a development grant. An important condition of the grant is that 95%, by value, of the machinery and equipment installed in the new or expanded facility must be new. A significant increase in employment resulting from the investment in an expansion to an existing facility is also a required condition.

purpose of program

The ADB has three major functions relating to the fostering of economic growth in the Atlantic region:

- (1) To recommend to the Federal Government programs and projects which will contribute to the development of the region
 - (2) To prepare, in consultation with the Economic Council of Canada, an overall development plan for the region
 - (3) To consult and co-operate with governmental departments, agencies and private organizations having aims related to those of the Board; and, where necessary, co-ordinate the activities of such departments, agencies and private organizations.

method of operation

The ADB engages in close consultation with provincial officials, interested federal agencies and private organizations in the preparation of the overall co-ordinated plan for economic growth in the region.

Largely through the sponsoring of feasibility studies and through assistance in financing projects, the Board identifies and fills gaps in development plans for the region.

eligibility

Projects on which the provinces have been consulted and for which satisfactory financing arrangements are not otherwise available, may be financed in whole or in part by the Board.

PRAIRIE FARM REHABILITATION

purpose of program

To effect better land utilization, for the development of available water resources and for more efficient use of water, all designed to provide stability to the prairie agriculture industry.

method of operation

Under this Act the Federal Government can make grants to individual farmers for dugouts, stockwatering dams and small irrigation projects. Community water storage projects are constructed by agreement with the province or local government, the Federal Government bearing the cost of construction and the local government providing the land right-of-way. Major irrigation and water development projects are constructed under special agreement with the province on a cost-sharing arrangement.

Community Pastures may be developed in Manitoba and Saskatchewan according to existing agreements. The province provides suitable land and PFRA pays the capital cost of developing the pasture.

A tree nursery distributes tree seedlings to farmers at no cost.

eligibility

Individual farmers, Rural Municipalities and provinces according to existing agreements.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT AREAS

purpose of program To increase income and employment opportunities in rural areas and communities which are in need of special assistance.

method of operation This is a Federal-Provincial shared-cost program established under the Rural Development Agreement, effective April 1, 1965. A Rural Development Area is an area so designated by the Federal and Provincial Ministers. It is selected on the basis of such factors as earnings of families or individuals, extent of unemployment or under-employment, record of social assistance payments, levels of education and socio-economic characteristics. The "Rural Development Areas" portion of the Agreement authorizes the provinces to undertake and administer projects or programs which are aimed at increasing income and employment opportunities within the Rural Development Areas. Under this part a wide variety of programs are contemplated including land development, forest improvement, fisheries, tourist industry and the development of existing farms.

eligibility All provinces under the terms set out in the Rural Development Agreement.

VETERANS' LAND ACT ADMINISTRATION

purpose of program

To provide financial and other assistance to eligible ex-service personnel and others from World War II and the Korean conflict to become established as farmers, small holders or commercial fisherman.

To provide, upon request, services to other federal departments with respect to house construction, management and development of rural land, and real estate appraisal services.

method of operation

The administration of the program is decentralized through 7 regional offices — each having several district offices (varying from 2 to 5 per region).

The field staff provide a number of services including the settling of veterans on the land, post-establishment supervision and referral for further assistance if requested, etc. They also conduct appraisals for other departments and supervise construction. Headquarters staff deal with policy, administration and training.

eligibility

Veterans of World War II and the Korean forces with certain minimum service requirements.

Specialized services of the Administration are available to all federal departments on an assignment basis.

CENTRALIZATION OF FISHING POPULATION AND INDUSTRY (NEWFOUND- LAND)

purpose of program

To help integrate people living in isolated fishing communities into the newly emerging industrial structure of the fishing industry, and so enable fishermen to increase their earnings by contributing more effectively to the development of the Canadian commercial fisheries.

method of operation

This is a federal-provincial shared-cost program administered by the Government of Newfoundland.

Families living in isolated communities where normal community facilities are not available, may be relocated in designated growth centres. Relocation grants of up to $2,500 for a family of five may be obtained by families in growth centres. Seventy-five per cent of the cost of these grants is provided by the Federal Government. Grants are made available to all householders in communities in which eighty per cent of the householders petition for relocation, or to individuals engaged in the fisheries and their families, if job opportunities exist in the fishing communities to which they wish to move.

eligibility

Petitions from any fishing community in Newfoundland in which eighty per cent of the householders request a relocation program are considered by a federal-provincial committee.

SMALL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT AND CO-OPERATIVE TRAINING

purpose of program

To encourage local business initiative, to improve the incomes of established businessmen, to assist individuals entering into business, and generally to attempt to stimulate the successful operation of independent businesses in the N.W.T.

method of operation

Small Business Management

Under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade, small business training courses are offered in various localities. Instructors, text books and other material are provided free jointly by the Government of the N.W.T. and by the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.

Co-operative Training

Full-time employees of N.W.T. co-operatives are eligible to receive training in all aspects of the operation of co-operatives. This training is accomplished by means of special courses held in the north and by the training of these employees in co-operative colleges in southern Canada. Costs are borne jointly by the Government of the N.W.T. and the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.

eligibility

Any resident of the N.W.T. who is an owner, partner, owner/manager, manager or prospective owner of a small business. Any full-time employee of a co-operative.

BOAT BUILDING

purpose of program

To enable local population to acquire skills related to living in a costal area. As skills are acquired it is expected that people living within the forest belt may, in time, be able to supply those living outside the forest belt with marine transport which in turn would mean a small industry and a source of income.

method of operation

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development provides financial and technical assistance on a program of boat building and repair to selected residents of the Northwest Territories. It is expected that when training is completed some graduates of the program will establish small building and repair facilities in the Territories while others may utilize acquired skills in shipyards outside the Territories.

LOGGING

purpose of program

To enable the local population to use the forest resource as a source of income by providing some of the materials required for local housing to reduce dependence on imports and to provide material for local boat building and repair.

method of operation

On the basis of Area Economic and Resource Surveys, logging and milling operations which may be profitably operated in northern regions are organized through the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development with the co-operation and assistance of the Territorial Forest Service. Technical and financial assistance as well as sales outlets are provided by the Department in the initial stages of establishing the industry but the aim of the program is to enable the local population to operate the industries themselves.

NORTHERN FOODS – SPECIALTY PROCESSED FOODS

purpose of program

To use the renewable resources by developing processed products from fish and mammals which can be sold to southern consumers. To provide northern populations with seasonal country foods preserved for use on a year round basis.

method of operation

Processing plants are established in the north under the supervision of a Departmental officer to carry out standard processing procedures and also experimental work to develop new products. The program involves training of local residents to enable them to eventually take over the industry as a private or co-operative enterprise.

RESOURCE HARVESTING

purpose of program

To develop and to improve techniques for harvesting resources in northern regions in order to assure maximum utilization of local resources for domestic use and, in some cases, to use surplus resources as an export to southern markets to provide a source of income.

method of operation

In co-operation with other Departments, notably the Department of Fisheries, the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development provides technical assistance to develop and improve techniques in fishing activities. These include the provision of modern processing facilities as well as provision of modern small vessels and fishing gear on a similar basis as this type of industry receives in the south.

OLDER WORKERS

purpose of program

To stimulate and encourage greater use of older members of the Labour Force.

method of operation

Through its section on Older Workers, the Civilian Rehabilitation Branch of the Department of Manpower and Immigration co-ordinates activities on behalf older workers at the national level. It carries out a continuing educational and publicity program by assembling and distributing technical and informational material related directly or indirectly to older workers. It develops and maintains liaison with Regional Manpower Offices, provincial officials, voluntary agencies, educational institutions, industry and organized labour. The approach has been to demonstrate the value to employers of using older workers and to suggest ways and means of making their use more effective and profitable to the employer and the economy. This includes the interpretation and use of studies and research projects.
